Goodlett swamps Kirk in Belle Glade

BELLE GLADE — For a person who doesn't want to get involved in politics, City Commissioner-elect Charles "Chief Charley" Goodlett will be entering office next month with a startlingly strong show of confidence from the voters.

Goodlett made it look easy Tuesday, belying numerous predictions of a close race between him and incumbent Mayor-Commissioner Ralph Kirk, in a 1,045-612 win in the only commission contest while incumbent Tom Altman pulled 1230 votes to begin his fourth two-year term unopposed.

Goodlett said he didn't want to get involved in politics in reply to a boisterous query from a congratulatory about. "When are you gonna try for the county, Chief?"

"I'm appreciative of the people in Belle Glade who elected me," Goodlett said. "I'm going to work very hard to make a good commissioner. I've got a lot of things in mind (for projects on the commission) but I don't want to get into those now. I'm still a little bit jittery."

Goodlett ran on a platform that he has 32 years of experience as an employee of the city, holding down the positions of police officer, police chief and director of public safety. He retired at the beginning of the year and when he announced his candidacy in July, he said it was a step he had contemplated for the past several years.

Goodlett was considered for years to hold a position of authority and respect in city politics although this was the first time he's run for office. He said he first started thinking about running for the Group Two at-large commission seat two years ago when Kirk, a friend of long standing, announced that would be the last time he would seek reelection.

Kirk has held his office for ten years and said in 1978 he wouldn't seek re-election because he felt, "Ten years is long enough for anybody."

He said he changed his mind about a reelection attempt recently when a number of friends asked him to reconsider.

He said Tuesday night, after the votes had been tallied, that he had no regrets and, "I appreciate the people who supported me. I've enjoyed the last 10 years and I wish Charley all the luck in the world."

Both candidates laughed when asked about another challenge they had issued one another the day they qualified for the election but neither said a date has been set for the golf match.

Whatever happens in the election," Mark quipped shortly after the two had filed their candidacies on July 11, "I know I can beat Charley on the golf course."

A total of 1,747 voters, including 51 who voted by absentee ballots, provided input into the decision about who would hold the at-large seat for the next two years. That accounted for 40.9 per cent of the 4,262 registered city voters.

The turnout surprised a number of observers, who'd expected an unusually light turnout, both because there was only one contested race and because of a campaign being waged by Al "Zack" Woodward to keep black voters away from the polls. Woodward was campaign manager in the abortive candidacy of John L. Asberry Jr., who filed as a candidate against Altman on Aug. 20, the last day of the qualifying period amidst a confused controversy over how long he'd lived in Belle Glade, whether he had completed his verbal oath as a candidate and a complaint filed by the city with the

PHA demands records

PAHOKEE—Pahokee Housing Authority has indicated it will take a close look at the city's proposed 1981 budget and push for revisions based on more government funding.

Citing the Federal Freedom of Information Act and Florida's Public Records Act, the PHA board of commissioners has asked for copies of the 1981 city budget and fiscal records covering the past four years to be supplied at no cost.

A letter requesting copies of the records was presented to city council at Tuesday night's session by PHA Commission Chairman Mead Maxwell and PHA Director Randall Mills, who voiced concern over the increased water rate and the cutback to once-a-week garbage collection.

They charged that the city has not sought federal funding which, they said, is available to Pahokee as a depressed city and could amount to as much as $100,000. Also they criticized commissioners for not contacting legislators for an opinion before deleting shared-revenue income from the proposed budget.

In reply to the PHA representatives, Council President Billy McKinstry said the city could not count on money it didn't have nor base the budget on state and federal revenue that was not yet passed.

Documents requested by the PHA include the operating, utility, and revenue-sharing budgets for each year from 1976 to 1980 plus the end of year financial statements for those years, statements of funds on hand and invested funds, breakdowns of payments and interest due on all bond issues, and a listing of all city employee positions and salaries.

A proposal in the coming year's budget, to discontinue paying electric light bills for mobile homes situated at city facilities in exchange for the owner's services as unpaid security guards also brought two of the affected owners before the council.

They were Trooper Ron Cuchiaro of the Florida Highway Patrol and Deputy Sheriff Mike Stull who cited the numerous arrests they've made and the absence of vandalism in the areas their mobile homes are located. Cuchiaro oversees the incinerator, city barn, and sewer plant, and Stull, the library and tennis courts.

The men also pointed out that their light bills include some usage by the city such as spotlights.

SOUTH BAY — City residents can expect a couple of increases in service fees but the line will be held on a third fee if the city commission adopts the 1980-81 budget as they discussed it in a workshop Tuesday evening.

The proposed budget is virtually identical to this year's budget. Acting City Manager Lomax Harrelle and City Clerk Virginia Walker noted, increasing only $23,000 from $1,089 this year to $1,112.

The increases are expected to come in the form of utility taxes, a measure already approved by the commission, and in garbage collection fees, which were the subject of discussion and which haven't yet been approved.

The compromise figure of $7 a month for residential garbage fees was what came out of the Tuesday session. The 65 per cent increase from the current $4.50 monthly garbage fee is a compromise between suggested figures of $6 and $8 that were discussed.

On the other hand, Harrelle couldn't budget the commissioners with his pleas to increase trash pickup fees from $1 a month to $2 a month. Harrelle noted the $1 a month fee, which breaks down to 25 cents per weekly pickup, only generates $10,800 and the city is facing a $16,000 tipping fee for disposing of trash during the coming year that it doesn't now have.

Tipping fees are also behind the increase in garbage fees that Harrelle has written into the proposed budget. He estimates another $33,000 will be charged the city for disposing of garbage, over and above the collection fees now charged by South Florida Sanitation.

The disposal fees are being mandated by the closing of the Belle Glade sanitary landfill and the Palm Beach County landfill in Pahokee on Sept. 30. After that date, garbage and trash are expected to be hauled to the sanitary landfill in Lantana and the estimated cost has been set at $15 a ton.

Harrelle estimates the city will have to pay a total of $50,000 in tipping fees over the next year, although the only figures anyone has been able to come up with so far have been estimates.

Harrelle did tell the commissioners at the workshop however (Only Mayor-Commissioner Don Tanner and Commissioners Refugio "Pancho" Garcia and Ray Sullivan were present.) that a meeting has been set up this week to explore the possibility of Belle Glade and South Bay using the Pahokee incinerator as a place to dispose of at least some of those two cities' garbage and trash.

He said the meeting will be between the public works directors of the three cities and Tim Hunt, director of the County Solid Waste Authority. He said he didn't know if the partial solution would be worthwhile or could be made to work but it was something worth exploring.

While residential fees are tentatively being increased to $7 a month, fees for containers are expected to be increased from $37.50 a month to $55 and commercial rates will tentatively be increased from $10 to $17.

The change in the utility structure, which is expected to raise an additional $60,000 revenues for the city, is from a sliding scale from 10 per cent of electric, telephone and gas bills for the first $50 to 5 per cent for the next $25 and 1 per cent for anything over $75, to a flat 10 per cent of the respective utility bill.

City employees are expected to benefit from the new budget because the city is absorbing the entire cost of insurance premiums, saving them $11.50 a week and amounting to a $14 weekly pay raise for the employees.

Harrelle said any other raises came in the form of merit increases.

The city commission won't vote on whether to approve the 1980-81 budget until a special meeting being held at 8 p.m. Sept. 23. Between now and then, Harrelle said he will solicit the input of Commissioners Cox and Rogers.

Belle Glade, county housing venture set

BARBARA PETERSON

By DEAN JONES
BELLE GLADE — City and county housing officials are expected to get together in the near future, as a result of a meeting held Monday, to explore various possible ways of providing housing for low-income residents.

Belle Glade Community Development Director Remar Harvin and Palm Beach County Housing and Community Development Director John Green are expected to head up the task force, with a mandate by city commissioners and one expected from the county commission, to find low cost housing for homeowners and low cost rental housing. The meeting, expected to be the first of a series, was presided over by Belle Glade Commissioner Dorothy Walker, who called it, and County Commissioner Bill Bailey and City Commissioners Tom Altman and Randy Davidson.

The commissioners were brought up to date on past and current efforts to rehabilitate existing housing and provide new housing units by Harvin and Green, with input also being provided by Jack McCall, a developer in the last stages of applying for a U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) grant to build 50 units of subsidized rental housing and who is also applying for another 96 units, and Barbara Peterson of Charter Mortgage Co., the company that will finance the project.

McCall said he had two more steps before final approval of the 50 units of Section 8 housing is granted by HUD, one of which had been scheduled for Monday but which he had put off until Tuesday because of the meeting.

He said he has a capacity of 150 units of housing on the plot of land between South-west Sixth and Tenth Streets where the 50 units are to go and he is attempting to get an application through for as many as 96 more units which have been granted to Palm Beach County, exclusive of West Palm Beach.

McCall said it has taken about 16 months to get to the present point on Phase I, the first 50 units, and is still working to get approval for as many of the other units as possible for Phase II.

Ms. Peterson said she has been informed that HUD officials in Jacksonville, "would rather give units to Belle Glade than any other city in Palm Beach County," but the need for housing would have to be documented and there are other problems.

She said one problem is "impaction," which she defined by saying HUD doesn't normally like to approve Section 8 housing in areas where there is already subsidized housing available because that would concentrate too many people who are low income, elderly or in minority ethnic groups together.

McCall said impaction is a problem that can be overcome in Belle Glade with relative ease, however. She said the problem can often be acute in such larger cities as Detroit and Chicago but the

CRACKER CRUMBS
BY DEAN JONES

In the Suspicious Confirmation category, I got the official word the other day that the median income for people living in Palm Beach County is $18,000 a year and, brother, if you make less than $12,000, you ain't nothin' but lo-o-ow income. Well, my pappy did say we weren't nothin' but poor white trash and I always did believe him. But it did hurt somewhat to find out that's what the gov'mint thinks too. Oh well, back to the old philosophy that if I give out with a gaffe, you can just nudge the guy next to you and explain it away that the Crumb is just trash and you gotta excuse him. What can you expect...anyway? On t'other hand, if I ever accomplish anything, I will have progressed. All seriousness aside though, that wasn't the first time I've had suspicions I'm in what you call your low income category, not to say impoverished, destitute, impecunious.

insolvent, hard-up, financially distressed and embarrassed, broke, barfoot and beggary. And if I wasn't convinced otherwise, I would've been the time not too long ago when I was sitting at table, mouth watering over a bowl of tepid gruel, and caught the tail end of a conversation.

"Well," came the reply to a statement or question I didn't hear. "I just don't see how anybody can make it on $18,000 a year...not with prices the way they are."

"Why," I wanted to cry, "neither do I, but I'd sure like to try. Would you believe $12,000? I'd try that too."

even if Memorial Day, Labor Day and a few other things besides rain, sleet and gloom of night can't stop 'em. But I'm not knockin' 'em. I may even join 'em, assuming they don't lynch me first. Besides, I know quite a few people who're foisting themselves off to a glibble public as reporters who might well be taken under the wing of some outfit like the united

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir: At some time during the morning hours of Sept. 8, this old, 11-foot plus, approximately 700 pounds or better gator was doing what it had been doing for years; namely swimming in the waters of the Hillsboro Canal near the city sewer treatment plant and basking in the sun, making a meal of a turtle, or fish and the occasional unlesashed.

That saved the county and the taxpayers the cost of picking up and eradicating said gator.

At this time, some of the "old residents" spotted the "old resident" and decided it was a hazard to life, limb and all of the other residents in the Glades, took it upon their her self to call in the Fire Department, Police Department, and the Sunbelt Department and innumerable members of the city's work force to eliminate this menace to mankind.

After four hours of futilely attempting to capture the gator, it was shot and hoisted out of the canal via a power winch furnished by one of the above mentioned departments.

If this has anything to do with saving energy and ecology, as Darwin said we are all descended from apes, I'm a monkey's uncle.

CHIROPRACTIC TODAY PINCHED NERVES

In our modern society, one of every ten non-hours lost from work is due to spinal disability. Back pain and other back disorders are frequently caused by defects in the alignment or in the mobility of one or more segments of the vertebrae.

In most cases, the trouble starts with an accident, a minor fall or the subjection of the back muscles to an excessive load. Any of these may stretch the supporting muscles or ligaments, causing the misalignment of the vertebrae.

A misalignment in the neck (cervical vertebrae) can cause headaches, neck pain and shoulder and arm disorders. A misalignment in the upper back (thoracic vertebrae) can cause pain in the rib cage as well as the chest such as intercostal neuralgia. A lower back (lumbar vertebrae) misalignment can cause low back and leg pain such as sciatica.

Chiropactic is able to provide relief from back pains by locating and correcting the misalignment that is causing the trouble. The longer the misalignment goes uncorrected, the more difficult it becomes to correct. Phone for an appointment today.

Don't get conned

Reprinted by permission of the Florida Farm Bureau.

Alcohol production for gasoline is being touted as the salvation of agriculture in the '80s and '90s. Congress has made several billion dollars available in loans and grants to promote the rapid increase in alcohol production to help offset the rising fuel needs of this nation and to reduce oil imports.

Farmers are being inundated by folks either wanting to sell alcohol fuel systems for small farm operations or asking farmers to buy stock in some proposed large alcohol production facility.

There are some real concerns here because many of these proposals could well be promoted by rip-off artists and, in some cases, ill-informed people. The changing technology of alcohol fuel production concerns some growers who are worried that after they invest thousands of dollars in equipment, new and better processes and tools will be available.

Anyone who is considering getting involved in alcohol production in any way, whether it be in production of crops for an alcohol facility or in investing in the facility itself, should proceed with extreme caution for it is with certainty, many thousands and even millions of dollars will be lost before alcohol production for fuel will be perfected to economically compete with petroleum products. Let the buyers beware, for this is a ready-made market for con artists to sell fuel systems that will end up in the scrap heap or at best make an unusable product.

Farm Bureau is interested in the promotion and development of legitimate alcohol fuel production. The future of farming energy along with food and fiber looks promising to the agricultural industry.

Farmers are in the best position to make alcohol fuel since feedstock (corn or other crops from which to make alcohol) are at the disposal of the growers. Not only does the farmer control the supply, but he does not have to transport any great distance to the still. Corn and other feedstocks of alcohol fuel distillation constitute 80 percent of the cost of production. Technology does exist on which to base the beginnings of a farm alcohol system using corn, sugar beets, fruit culling, etc.

While figures on current economic realities appear to be widely divergent, more promising statistics are surfacing. Dependable figures on production costs are badly needed if on-farm alcohol production is to develop on a sound basis.

The farmer once provided the fuel for horses. Now he is in the energy field again. There are definite opportunities here for agriculture and for those who are able to separate the wheat from the chaff. Our research centers are spending millions to develop the technology to make alcohol production for fuel a reality and a significant addition to supplying our nation's fuel needs.

This is a much better way for those in agriculture to get into the business — through economic and technological research and through a cautious and studied approach based on whether it is feasible. Fly-by-night promoters say they never con anyone — only give a lesson in economics — and sometimes the cost hurts all the way to the bone. Sometimes, even a word to the wise is not sufficient. It may take a little bit of experience, too!

Unleashing the IRS

Reprinted by permission of The Sacramento Bee.

The U.S. Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations has, with good reason, urged the Internal Revenue Service to "get back into the fight against organized crime." A report by the subcommittee refers to the fact that the IRS phased out its organized crime investigation and intelligence gathering functions because so many restrictions were placed on IRS agents by the Nixon administration. The subcommittee charges that the IRS currently concentrates on "ordinary" taxpayers in the middle and higher income brackets, but is not trying to make cases against drug traffickers and organized crime figures.

There was a time when organized crime big shots, including bit-time drug dealers, feared IRS agents more than any other investigators," said Sen. Sam Nunn, chairman of the subcommittee, citing past examples of organized crime bosses being convicted for income tax evasion when other enforcement agencies could not make a case against them.

Surely the financial investigative techniques used to catch and convict mobsters such as Al Capone are as effective today as they were in the days of prohibition. Logically, the IRS is the federal agency that can best use these techniques to trace the movement of money in the investigation of organized crime and drug traffic.

What is needed is a reorganization of the IRS investigations and intelligence departments, giving each its own director

Housing subsidies for wealthy!

After the General Accounting Office delivered a blistering attack on waste and sloppy administration in federal subsidized housing programs, we would have expected Congress to be acting a little contrite. Instead, the House is apparently so satisfied with the way things are going it has voted to extend federal housing assistance to middle-income families.

Housing subsidies are now limited to families whose income is 80 percent or less of the median income in their community. Whether the programs are well run or not, the eligibility rule at least aims the assistance at those who would need it the most.

The new plan voted by the House would open the subsidy gate for families with incomes ranging as high as one-and-one-half times the local median income. In New York City, this works out to incomes of $42,000 a year.

The Senate refused to be carried away by this election-year largesse and voted against a similar proposal last June. The view prevailed in the Senate that even if middle-income families are caught in a housing squeeze, too, a government trying to control its budget cannot come to their rescue without draining resources away from housing programs for the poor. That makes separate housing bills. Congress should be demanding that the Housing and Urban Development Department clean up its act so fewer dollars are wasted in the $3 billion now being spent on low-income housing subsidies. That's where the priority lies.

Safety first

(Reprinted by permission of The St. Louis Globe-Democrat)

U.S. automakers, plagued by huge losses in sales to foreign competitors, may take comfort from the finding that domestic small cars are safer than Japanese and German cars of similar size.

As more and more prospective car buyers weigh the purchase of smaller, fuel saving models, many are nonetheless safety conscious.

Others who can more readily afford to pay higher gasoline bills put comfort as well as safety ahead of economy. Bigger and stronger cars will continue to appeal to them.

Joan Claybrook, head of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, reported that not one of 10 new Japanese and German cars passed a test in which they were crashed head-on into solid barriers at 35 mph. Results indicated drivers and passengers would have been killed or seriously injured.

In earlier tests, other American-built cars weighing less than 3,350 pounds met approval. They were General Motors' similarly-built Chevrolet Citation, Pontiac Phoenix, Oldsmobile Omega and Buick Skylark, Chrysler's Dodge Omni and Plymouth Horizon, and Ford's Mustang and Mercury Capri.

Miss Claybrook was especially critical of Japanese manufacturers for not emphasizing structural safety.

Many Americans prefer to buy cars made in the U.S.A. because of the boost to jobs and the economy that their purchases provide.

Others consider it chic or costly to drive foreign cars. If U.S. carmakers can stay out in front in claiming safer products they may go a long way toward recouping lost sales.

It's reassuring that "safety first" is still a "made in U.S.A." slogan.

Garbage discussed

PAHOKEE -- Permission to keep the county landfill dump site open to the city until its incinerator is in full-time operation is sought by City Council.

Commissioners approved a resolution Tuesday night asking the county's Solid Waste Authority to delay the Sept. 30 closing of the dump site to the city because it will cause a hardship and has not been proven to be an "environmental degradation."

The city intends to put its incinerator into full-time operation as soon as repairs are completed. Early estimates on repairs range from $30,000 to $40,000, according to Director of Public Works Donnie Martin.

Martin's report was given to the council by City Clerk Betty McCoy in his absence. She told commissioners that Martin expected to have a firm estimate on the repairs by Friday.

The early closing of the landfill site impacts on Pahokee's 1981 budget, now in the process of being adopted, as well as those of South Bay and Belle Glade, because the dumping fees will jump from the present $7 a load to $17 a ton with garbage being hauled to the coast for disposal.

Expecting to reactivate its incinerator, Pahokee has allocated only $5,000 in the coming year's budget for trash disposal. And while the facility has been operating on a part-time basis, it must be repaired to be operated full-time. Mrs. McCoy quoted Martin as saying half of the incinerator can be operated, however, while the other half is under repair.

Martin, meanwhile, is hoping to meet with public works directors Ron Sigmon of Belle Glade and Lomax Harrelle of South Bay to discuss possible alternatives for garbage disposal with SWA Director Tim Hunt.

Hooker, co-owner; Ed Foley and Dr. Effie Grear, members of the Chamber committee; and Dale Gates, co-owner and manager of Dino's. Mica BBQ is slated BELLE GLADE -- Incumbent District 11 Congressman Dan Mica will bring his campaign for re-election to the Glades Sept. 27 when he meets area supporters during a political rally and barbecue at Airport Park.

The barbecue and rally is being put on by the Glades Area Committee to Re-elect Dan Mica, a group of about 25 Glades residents headed up by Chairman George Wedgworth. Public Relations Chairman Dolly Hand said barbecue tickets will be $15 per person but admittance to the rally, which will run from 3 to 6 p.m., will be free. Louis Kirkman of Fry-Edy's Restaurant is in charge of catering the meal.

Mrs. Hand said tickets are being sold by all members of the committee and can also be obtained by calling 996-5556 and asking for Sharon.

state's attorney over how he had qualified. Asberry withdrew his candidacy a week later via a certified letter to City Clerk June Boglioli, listing his only reason as "circumstances beyond my control."

Woodard has been passing out flyers for the past week, urging blacks not to vote; that the election was "rigged" because there were no black candidates.

This was the first time in four elections that Altman has been unopposed. Goodlett takes office, effective Oct. 1 and could be sworn in as a commissioner either at the end of the Sept. 22 meeting, at the beginning of the Oct. 13 commission meeting or at any called meeting between. The commission normally holds its reorganizational meeting just before the first meeting in October.

The first order of the organizational meeting will be to select the 1980-81 mayor. Traditionally, although there are exceptions, the senior commissioner who has not yet held the office is selected.

With Kirk stepping down from the commission, the only commissioner who has held the mayor's slot will be Altman, who held it for two consecutive terms before Kirk. The next senior commissioner is Claude Tindall, who is beginning his fourth year, and the next two are Randy Davidson and Dorothy Walker, both just beginning the second year of their first term.

Housing

entire downtown area of Belle Glade is so small a person can drive across town in five to ten minutes.

"If you can show need," she told the commissioners, "they (HUD) will give you Section 8 units there." She pointed out that other options are also available.

Commissioner Altman asked Ms. Peterson if she was implying the city hasn't done everything possible to facilitate getting housing grants and she quickly replied she wasn't, that she was spelling out what had to be done.

McCall said he had been impressed with the aid the city has given him in getting HUD approval of the Section 8 housing.

Harcis noted that HUD not only looks at the need for housing but the ability of the governmental agency housing to produce the housing. He said Belle Glade has a good production record.

Besides the Section 8 housing, two other alternatives were mentioned: the first being a joint program between the city and county on the outskirts of the city which might be funded by the Farmers Home Administration.

The city isn't now eligible for FmHA funding because of a policy that the agency will only provide loans and grants to cities with populations under 10,000.

The second possibility was brought up by Bill Bailey, who said he would favor the use of a part of a 246 acre parcel of land recently bought by the county on SR15 across from Palm Beach Junior College.

Glades, with an eye toward making it a regional park, for housing.

Bailey said he had been criticized for wanting to use the entire parcel of land for the park rather than for housing but he said that isn't his position. He did stipulate, however, that if housing is put in, it should be single family residences or condominiums which would be bought by the tenants.

He noted the land had been bought with funds generated by a beach and parks bond issue and by law the land would have to be used for recreation. On the other hand, he said part of the property could be sold, with the proceeds going into the county recreation fund, or swapped for other recreational land.

Bailey said he would like to retain at least 80 acres of the parcel for a park and procure other land adjacent to the Belle Glade golf course to create another nine holes for the course.

After hearing other input, Miss Walker and Bailey said they were both satisfied the park and recreation had been laid for cooperative efforts by the city and county to help resolve the city's housing problem.

Records

to $20, the officers told councilmen the service given is cheap "considering what you would have to pay."

The city has estimated it would save some $12,000 a year in electricity costs while still providing free parking space for the mobile homes in exchange for security service.

Plans to adopt an ordinance that would require developers outside the city limits to pay an "impact fee" for connecting into city sewer and water lines was also set in motion at Tuesday night's session.

On recommendation of Utilities Director Bill Cross, the council instructed Attorney Michael Stauder to prepare an ordinance establishing impact fees with the amount of the fees to be determined after a survey of similar fees charged by area municipalities. The revenue raised would provide funding for any future expansion of facilities due to the added hook-up needed by housing developments, councilmen agreed.

- Referred to the Parks Committee three bids received for grounds maintenance. Bids of $2505 a month or $30,000 a year from Everett Professional Lawn Service and $2425 a month and $29,100 a year from Stenson Lawn Service did not include specifications for the library and park. Both firms are in Riviera Beach. A bid from Kenneth Buckner in Canal Point which did include all units amounted to $5612 a month or $67,344 a year. The council is considering contracting for grounds maintenance rather than employing own groundskeepers and equipment.

- Approved hiring Michael R. Harlow of Clewiston as a police officer at $5.82 an hour with a six-month probationary period.

- Accepted the recommendation of the Mel Tillis Scholarship Committee naming Thomas M. "Marty" Parris as recipient.

- Passed on first reading an ordinance to raise water rates from $1 to $2 per 1,000 gallons above the minimum 4,000 gallons rate inside the city and from $1.25 to $2.50 outside the city limits, to take effect with the December 1 billing.

Your boat motor needs TLC

By LORNE RACICOT
The old saying about "look after your equipment and it will look after you" was never more true than when it comes to your outboard motor.

It is the means of getting to the fishing areas and getting you home. Since the design of today's boats do not adapt to rowing and oars have become somewhat passe it pays to keep your motor in tip top condition.

When maintenance is neglected a breakdown can be expected sooner or later. Few motors fail at the dock. It is when you are several miles from home that the problem usually rears up and makes things rather awkward, to say the least.

One outboard dealer tells me, that in his estimation, at least 90% of breakdowns are unnecessary. Every purchaser of an outboard is provided with an operation and maintenance manual and when followed through, on a regular basis, results in years of trouble free operation. The repairing dealers are not swamped with more than they can handle at times. September is generally regarded as a "slow" fishing month so by getting your equipment ready at this time, you will be ready when the fall and winter fishing activity is at its best. For those whose motors are eight to ten years old it is important that you order replacement parts as soon as possible.

Few dealers stock parts for these vintage motors and parts may be encountered in procuring them from the factory. You just have to allow time for delivery. So get out those manuals and follow the check list. If you like so many of us, have neither the time, the mechanical bent or this type of activity is just not your bag call your dealer now and arrange to bring your rig in for a proper inspection, tune up and where necessary, repair or replacement of parts.

A complete motor check and tune up can be obtained for as little as $15 or $20. The cost can be higher. It all depends on the condition of the motor, its horsepower and what repairs and parts due to the hot sun, very quickly. There are other reasons a pump can go bad but the sun itself is enough to give problems. It is good practice to have the pump replaced periodically. It is far less expensive to replace it than it is to replace gears, drive shafts, etc. Your dealer can do the job in a short time.

(3) Loose nuts and bolts — Remove the cowl from the motor and check every one. Tighten where necessary and if you see some loose items rolling around in the motor casings then you had better find out where each and every one goes. If you can't then get it to a mechanic who does know where each goes. This can prevent a lot of headaches later.

(4) Propeller — Remove it. Check behind it for monofilament and other debris. Grease the shaft as called for and before replacing the prop have it checked to see that the so-called slip clutch (that rubber insert in your prop) has not deteriorated. If it has your dealer can have it re-buffed for you at nominal cost. Check the blades. If they are nicked, cracked or chipped have it re-conditioned. A bent blade, for example, can cause excessive damage to the gears and drive shaft over a period. So, "it looks pretty good," is not good enough. If both re-buffing and re-conditioning is required it is usually less expensive to get a new prop. Your dealer can advise you on this.

Small nicks can be filed even. Do not file more than is absolutely necessary. If you file too much you can upset the prop's balance. This can lead to costly repairs.

(5) Lower unit — Remove the two nuts and drain the foot of the motor. Replace with the proper lubricant. Hypoid is recommended by the manufacturers. Hypoid 90 is usually used but not always. Some motors require a different S.A.E.

(6) Grease fittings — Check these carefully and re-grease each and every one with the proper lubricant.

(7) Pull ropes — Whether your motor be an electric or manual start the pull rope must be in good condition. In the case of manual starts if the rope breaks you are just at the dock or ramp or out on the water.

In the case of electric start motors check your auxiliary starting rope. If the condition is such that it may let you down then replace it immediately. Manual start pull ropes have a tendency to chafe severely if the first few inches directly behind the pull rope handle. This is caused by pulling the rope when re-gapping plugs that is in the water and run it. The use of attachment to force water through is no real test of the pumps efficiency.

Lack of back pressure is one of the reasons for this. When boats are stored for the summer, whether for short or long periods, the rubber impeller, which is on your pump, can deteriorate usually have considerable water in them due to condensation. This can be a real problem. Remove the fuel pickup tube from the tank and clean filter by washing in lead-free gas or kerosene.

When replacing, make certain that the gasket is properly aligned. If the gasket shows signs of deterioration replace it with a new one.

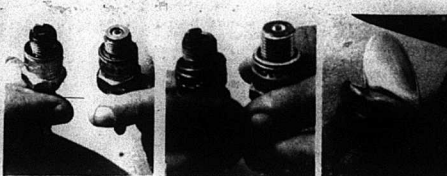

(10) Fuel line — Check the line for cracking or checking. It is also a good idea to check it for flexibility. A stiff hose can break if inadvertently bent at a sharp angle. If your hose is in this condition, replace it. Primer bulbs should be thoroughly checked for cracks or splits. Also check for uneven shape as this indicates the primer bulb is not long for this world. If it is not in good condition, replace the bulb. The check valve in a bulb can wear out and your mechanic can tell you when it should be replaced. Check "O" rings very carefully. They should be flexible, soft and show no sign of feathering or other deterioration. They should be replaced periodically if for no other reason than to be sure they won't fail.

(11) Galvanic action — For those who use their boats in the salt the galvanic action inhibitor on the foot of the motor should be checked frequently. It is designed to wear away to protect your motor. Replace when worn and it is a good idea to always carry a spare.

As I said before, this is an excellent time of the year to get your motor, etc. thoroughly checked, tuned and repairs and replacements attended to. See your repairing dealer now when labor and parts are available.

Next week we will deal with maintenance of your boat.

THESE SPARK plugs wouldn't get you from the dock.

ELECTRODES should look like this.

THIS PROP is in perfect condition.

Q. My fiberglass boat is less than two years old and I have discovered a lot of little "dings" in the side of the hull, where the boat has banged against the dock or some sharp object. Can the finish be easily repaired without a great expense? JR

A. Yes, if only small punctures have been made in the gel coat. But make certain the damage is only minor by carefully inspecting each spot both inside and outside the hull.

If you find cracks extending away from the dinged area, you have some more complicated repairs to make. These are not impossible to correct. They are only more complicated and we will talk about those in a future column.

After making certain there is no damage beneath the gel coat, the thin surface coating on the hull, obtain from your marine chandlery a gel coat repair kit. There are a number of good ones on the market. You will probably want to obtain paint coloring to match your hull finish and mix that with the kit, carefully following the manufacturer's directions.

After cleaning the damaged area with acetone and mixing the material, simply apply to damaged area. The new gel repair mixture should be applied as smoothly as possible, leaving the surface about one-sixteenth of an inch higher than that of the surrounding area.

Allow the repaired area to cure the prescribed time; take #200 grit wet-dry sandpaper and smooth surface. Avoid damaging neighboring gel coat.

Continue next with #400 grit sandpaper. When the surface level matches surrounding area in height, restore smoothness and luster by scrubbing with dampened pumice or rotten stone powder.

If your inspection of the dinged area shows the damage goes beneath the gel coat, breaking the fiberglass structure, but is still only a small area, scrape the hole clean of loose material. Using a sharp object, work the inside of the hole slightly larger than the exterior.

National Hunting & Fishing Day Sept. 27, 1980

HELPING INSURE THE FUTURE

Working inside the hull, sand an area about one-and-a-half inches beyond the damaged area.

Obtain a fiberglass repair kit and a piece of fiberglass cloth. An epoxy resin repair kit is my preference, because this does not have the shrinkage problem in curing that is experienced with polyester mixtures. Chopped glass fibers will also be needed.

Clean surface inside and outside the hull with acetone, being careful to avoid breathing the fumes. Keep the cleaner off your skin.

After resin is mixed according to instructions on kit, apply resin from inside the hull to the walls of the damaged area. Then using a mixture of the resin and chopped glass fibers, dab the material into the hole. Do not push material through to outside of hull.

Cut fiberglass cloth to fit the sanded area. Saturate sanded surface and cloth with resin. Lay cloth on damaged area, smoothing to eliminate all air bubbles.

Cut a second piece of fiberglass cloth about an eighth of an inch smaller than original patch. While the first cloth is still wet, saturate second cloth with resin, place it over first patch, smooth and eliminate all air bubbles. That should complete interior repairs.

Working from outside hull, check to make sure chopped glass fibers extend close enough to surface for strength, yet do not interfere with final application of gel coat. Apply final gel coat application as previously discussed, leaving surface one-sixteenth of an inch higher than neighboring surfaces. After curing, sand and smooth as discussed earlier.

Area fishing report

By LORNE RACICOT
With few exceptions, fishing was on the slow side this past several days. The Rim Canal which has been the scene of some excellent bluegill and bass fishing is now showing a color change due to the tannic acid content as a result of our recent, heavy rains.

This condition will last only as long as the rains continue on the heavy side. The fish appear to have moved to the lake proper. Here the water is very clear and the fish are skittish.

When the water is as clear as this, long casts are the order of the day. Some fishermen have been more than somewhat successful as, for example, Dick Vance of Anglers Marina in Clewiston told of two gentlemen who found a sizeable patch of slightly dingy water on the flats midst the peppergrass beds and bass were schooled and slashing at bait fish all over the place.

Using crank baits they brought in their limit of 10 each weighing from 1 1/4 to 4 pounds. In addition they released 30. Just to prove it to himself, Dick went out next morning and in less than an hour bottled nine bass of the same size, in the same area and on the same type of lure. Some bluegill and shell-crackers were brought in but not in the numbers of a week or so ago. They will continue to hit for those that take the time to seek them out.

Ken Parker of Calusa Lodge of Lakeport advised that bass fishermen were active but that very few were seeking panfish. Mr. and Mrs. Glen Gowen came in with one of the better stringers of bass. That being a limit except to 7 pounds. They were caught on plastic worms. Some panfish were taken but not in great numbers.

At the J. Mark Camp in

Belle Glade, Mike Mark tells us that fishing was somewhat on the slow side but that bass and bluegill are being caught. The heavy rains in that area have dampened the enthusiasm of the fishermen at the moment. Mike says that, with the present moon phase he anticipates more pronounced action shortly. Especially if the rains ease up.

So, for those of you who are actively fishing keep an eye out for (1) schooling bass and (2) slightly dingy areas of water. Keep an eye up stairs too.

Local high schools start football seasons

THE ONLY FISH Dr. Robert Allen caught all day Sunday, in a bass fishing tournament between the Lake Okechobee Tackle Testers, of Pahokee, and the Bassmasters of Belle Glade, was worth the trouble. Allen said the 7'11" lunker was the largest bass he's caught in his life.

All four high schools in western Palm Beach County kick off their 1980 football seasons with home games Friday.

Christian Day School begins its season at 4 p.m. in a game against Beren Christian School behind St. Peters Lutheran School on North Canal Street East.

Each of the other three teams in the area, Glades Central, Pahokee and Glades Day High Schools, respectively open their competition on their home fields at 8 p.m.

Glades Central will begin its season opener against J.I. Leonard. Pahokee will kick off its year against Boca Raton and Glades Day will open against Bishop Verot.

Crosser head coach Gus Harmon said he'll be coming off a 2-7 season last year with a number of returning lettermen and starters, hoping for a .500 record for a building year in 1980.

Harmon is replacing last year's head coach, Kenneth Lassiter, who left to get his masters degree at Delta State University in Cleveland, Miss., while working as a graduate assistant on the basketball team there.

Returning to the backfield, Harmon said, will be Kent Davis and Alex Morales, who the coach said is expected to set up a more balanced attack. "We ran about 80 per cent running plays last year, but this year, Alex should help us go about 60-40." Filling out the backfield will be Ronnie Cameron and Phillip Echols.

He said the mainstays on his line will be Gene Bair, Tod Hutton, James Barnwell, Stuart Hutton and transfer Scott Hudson of Bronson.

Glades Central head coach Ben McCoy said last week his Raiders are about two to three weeks away from being ready to play. McCoy has two all-state players from last year's state champion runner-up team keying his backfield.

McCoy's question mark has been his line after losing all his interior men through graduation last year. He noted the linemen coming on board are all young, "but if we can hold our own in the first two or three games, we'll be pretty strong the rest of the year."

The Raiders won their two quarters last Friday night in a jamboree, taking the measure of North Shore, 13-0 in one quarter and beating out Cardinal Newman in another quarter of play.

More rain needed

Unusually light rains through the first three months of the rainy season left the Glades area with 6.41 inches less rainfall than the average for this time of year, according to Dr. Robert Allen of the Agricultural Research and Education Center.

Dr. Allen said there was only 3.65 inches of rain in August, compared to the 55 year average of 8.13 inches. A total of 33.46 inches have fallen for the year compared to the 55 year average of 39.87 inches.

Dr. Allen said there has been excessive rain in only three of 1980's first eight months, leaving deficits in the other five.

Bass-masters Tackletesters

BELLE GLADE—The Lake Okechobee Bassmasters earned their name by putting the Lake Okechobee Tackle Testers to the test before the Belle Glade and Pahokee fishing clubs wound up their annual tournament with a feast of fresh fish.

The Bassmasters, from Belle Glade, caught a total of 147'1" compared to the Tackle Testers of Pahokee, who hauled in another 87'4" for the community fryng pans at the Aubrey Farmer Pavilion at the Belle Glade Marina, where they were joined by their wives and families for a fish fry.

Racquetball tournament set

BELLE GLADE—The City Recreation Department has scheduled a racquetball tournament for Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 20-21 at Airport Park according to Recreational Coordinator Mike Underwood.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT leaders at Palm Beach Junior College-Glades met recently for the second time, as the school year got underway and the SGA began talks on projects, including extracurricular activities and a new marquee for the college campus. Officers are, seated, from left, Sponsor Sandi Richmond, Treasurer Melba Moran, Vice President Chuck Hager, President Eddie Cunningham, Historian Nerina Bermudez and Public Relations Officer Steve Richey. Standing are active members Teresta Cubenas, Ana Mateague, Beatriz Menendez, Sandy Garza, Billy Sanchez and Tammy Parrish, public relations secretary.

"I only caught one fish," Allen crowed, "but it's the biggest I've caught in my entire life." The 7'11" lunker was also big enough to win the title for him of the largest bass snagged in the tournament.

Mathis won the title for the best string, totalling up his catch to 20'1".

Mathis was followed by second place winner David Sullivan, with a 17'1" string.

PRIDE'S BEAM, a two year old stallion, won first place in his division at the Tennessee Walking Horse competition in Shelbyville, Tenn. for Hugh Branch of Pahokee.

Pride's Beam takes blue ribbon

PAHOKEE -- Pride's Beam was a source of pride recently when he won first place in his class for owner Hugh Branch of Pahokee in the 42nd Annual Tennessee Walking Horse National Celebration in Shelbyville, Tenn., the Walking Horse Capital of the World. Branch's horse, with Charles Bobo up in the saddle, was the winner of the two year old walking stallions, beating out 44 other entries in the class. Pride's Beam was one of 1,700 Tennessee Walking horses entered in the ten-day show, which drew more than 100,000 spectators. The show is sponsored by the Tennessee Walking Horse National Celebration Association, a non-profit organization dedicated to the promotion of the Tennessee Walking Horse breed. The Celebration has been held every year since 1939 when it began as a modest horse show on the grounds behind the local high school.

Branch won $150 prize money along with a trophy and ribbon for his entry, part of the $100,000 in prize money and which went to entries in almost 80 classes.

Branch is president of Hugh H. Branch, Inc. in Belle Glade.

Herrings wed by candlelight

Blue and white flowers and candles decorated the Belle Glade United Methodist Church for the August 16 candlelight wedding of Tina L. Phillips and Daniel Roy Herring.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joe Ed McGahee. Soloist was Marie

Excarbar and the organist, Mrs. John Youngblood. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Jerry Phillips. Her gown of saten illusion was trimmed in Spanish Chantilly lace and featured a cathedral-length train. The gown cape of layered blue rose appliques edged the high collar. An Elizabethan cap embroidered with seed pearls held her fingertip-length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of blue and white silk flowers and ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Tammy K. Spell, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor wearing a floor-length gown cape of layered blue illusion organza over tulle. She carried a bouquet of silk flowers -- blue sweetheart roses centered with a single white rose and a matching halo.

The colors were repeated in similar gowns and bouquets of the bridesmaids, Terri Phillips and Tanya Moses, sisters of the bride, and Louise Herring, sister of the bridegroom.

Nicky McMillan was the flower girl. She wore a white gown with blue rose-printed eyeslets, and carried a wicker basket of rose petals.

Jimmy Herring, Jr., was best man for his brother. Ushers were Ronnie Brown, Edwarda Rezin, and Steve Herring, also a brother of the bridegroom.

The groomsmen wore blue tuxedos as did the ringbearer, Johnny McLeod, who carried the rings on a heart-shaped ring pillow of white satin.

The blue and white theme was repeated for the reception.

Conversation piece of the decorations was the chocolate groom's cake trimmed with dolls portraying a reluctant groom fleeing a bride.

The Herrings are making their home in Pahokee following a wedding trip to Alabama. Assisting with the reception were Vera Weeks, Sandy Leeman, Linda Mims, Virginia Lewis, Judy Caswell, Isabel Lamb, and Denise Mercer.

Among the wedding guests were the bride's grandmother, Myrtle L. Phillips and grandmothers of the groom, Maude Layfield and Inez Herring.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Burl Genting, Delray; Joseph W. Spell, Warner Robbins, Ga.; Mrs. Bobby Estinger, Black, Ala.; and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williams and family, Headland, Ala.

Members of the wedding party and families were guests at a rehearsal dinner hosted by Mrs. Herring at the Glades Sugar Corp. dining room.

Cook's Choice

Mrs. Robert Y. Creech, the former Nancy Hooker, selected this week's recipe, one that uses our native homegrown produce, she points out. Both the Hookers and the Creeches were Glades pioneer families, coming here in the 1920s. Long active in community affairs, Nancy is president of the Belle Glade Study Club, a member of the PEO sisterhood, and the Alliance Church, teaching children's church and singing in the choir. Her hobby is homemaking, says Nancy, who excels in sewing and gardening. The Creechs are the parents of five children: R. Y., III, a teacher in Darlington, S.C.; Lane, a golf pro in Allentown, Pa.; Rachael Creech, married to a U.S. Army Captain stationed at De Ridder, La.; Nancy, a student at Florida Southern College in Lakeland, and Amy, a student at Glades Day School. And they have four grandchildren.

Her recipe is a one-dish meal that goes well with a tossed salad, says Nancy, and it can be prepared ahead of time.

GUACAMOLE VEGETABLE

Guacamole:
2 avocados, peeled
1/2 large tomato, diced
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 1/2 tps lime juice
1/2 tsp salt

Sauteed Vegetables:
6 Tbsps butter or margarine
3 medium zucchini, thinly sliced (4 1/2 cups)
2 medium onions cut into eighths
1 large tomato, diced
3/4 tsp salt
1/4 tsp cumin
2 1/2 Tbsps flour
3 4-oz. cans taco sauce
Baked Potatoes

Prepare guacamole by mashing avocados with a potato masher in a medium-size bowl, and add remaining ingredients. Cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate. Melt 3 tablespoons butter in skillet and saute zucchini, onions, tomato, salt, and cumin until zucchini is barely tender, about three minutes. Remove vegetables with slotted spoon. Melt remaining 3 tablespoons butter in skillet, stir in flour and cook one minute. Add taco sauce and stir until smooth and slightly thickened. Return vegetables to skillet to reheat for 3 to 5 minutes. Spoon over baked potato and top with guacamole.

... and whatnot

What this world needs is more Brand X people. There are too many perfectionists around. Too many people who only want to go first class.

One of the happiest moments of my life was when I accepted my role in life as an also-ran. To celebrate I opened a can of spaghetti and washed it down with instant coffee.

Hear those groans? They're coming from the first class crowd. The folks who can't eat frozen pizza, who have to have "real coffee" and only buy squeezable toilet paper.

That's because they demand perfection. What I say is, "Perfectionists are seldom satisfied. Those who happily make do with second best are seldom disappointed."

It's the perfectionists who wrote the book of rules. You know: "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." "If a thing is worth doing, it's worth doing well." And "Let the shoemaker stick to his last."

Well, I say, "If at first you don't succeed, pack it

by Ailsa Dewing

BE A LOSER, HAVE MORE FUN

up." And let the shoemaker stick it in his ear, if that's what he wants to do.

It's not that I have anything against winning. It's just that the odds are better on place and show.

Also-rans never get gold stars. Never stand in the winner's circle. And don't get anybody's seal of approval. But we have more fun.

We can sing off-key, paint monstrosities, write drivel, and dance on two left feet. But sing we do. And paint, and write and dance. Just for fun. Not for profit. And never ever for adulation. Of course, if somebody wants to adulate, that's okay with us too.

Losers never have to say they're sorry. Or try harder. In fact, we don't even have to try.

"Shame on you," cry the contenders for the championship. "Have you no pride? Can't I win? Any excuse is better than none."

Possibly so. But that's another plus for second-raters. We don't even have to win arguments.

Think Safety...
...Think Christianity

We can't miss them — these signs along the intersections of our streets. They protect our school children from physical harm. We see the sign... and slow down.

Most of us are deeply concerned about the safety of our youngsters... and these signs can be a reminder of a further obligation our society has to its youth. There are dangers in life for which only religious training and faith can prepare us.

Boys and girls approaching maturity deserve the spiritual protection which Christian education provides.

Whenever you approach a school crossing, slow down! But, just don't think safety — think CHRISTIANITY.

KEEPING THE FAITH

By THE REV. JOE ED MCGRHEE
Community United Methodist Church

"Finally, brethren, whatever is true, whatever is honorable, whatever is right, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is of good repute, if there is any excellence and if there is any worthy of praise dwell on these things."

This summer, while on vacation, we went camping on Dale Hollow Lake up in Tennessee. Our camp site could only be reached by boat, so we were away from telephones, TV's and clocks — back in the wilderness.

I sat on a rock bound, the shore. I am always looking at the rocks wherever I go and usually bring some home with me. Sometimes I bring 10-15 pounds of rocks home, even when flying. So it did not take me long to discover that lying all over the beach was a particular kind of rock called a geode.

Geodes look like round rocks — which they are. But it is not the outside of a geode that really matters. Most of the time they look very ordinary and sometimes they are even ugly. Anyway, not even a rock bound would bother with them if that was all there was to them.

But the most important part of a geode is what is inside. So I began to break them open to see if they were what I thought they were, and they were. Inside some of them are pretty crystal formations — mostly quartz, some agates, and other things that light up a rock bound's countenance.

Of course, some of them were just as ordinary on the inside as they were on the outside. One of them was sort of pretty on the outside, but when I cracked it open I threw it in the lake — nothing pretty at all.

Well, this same thing is true about us as people. We tend to put all the emphasis on how we look on the outside. We also tend to judge others in the same way. But God looks on the inside of man and it is what is on the inside that really counts — that is what we are. Clothes and make-up may make us look good, but they are not going to determine that kind of people we are.

The inside is what we can do something about. Not only that, but we are responsible for what is on the inside of us. The writer of Proverbs said concerning man, "For as he thinketh in his heart, so is he." (Prov. 23:7) Jesus said, "For out of the heart come evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, slanders, these are the things that defile the man." (Matt. 15:19-20 NASB).

But the New Testament also tells us how we can have a beautiful inside: "Whatever is pure... honorable... right... lovely... of good repute, if there is anything worthy of praise, let your mind dwell on these things." (Phil. 4:8 ASB)

What we think about needs to be an act of our wills, a choice we make. If we do not make it so, we will find our minds drifting around to most anything and usually it will not be good.

Need after-school care?

BELLE GLADE — Is there a need for an after-school day care program for children?

The feasibility of establishing an after-school day care program for children five to ten years old is being studied by the Glades Area Association for Retarded Citizens.

Questionnaires are being distributed to determine the need for a program at the ARC facility in the former St. Peter's Lutheran Church, where children would receive supervised care from 2:30 until 6 p.m. weekdays at a cost of $25 a week.

It is believed that the after-school care would be of benefit to the community as well as providing additional funding for the ARC, according to Tricia Blash, G-ARC director.

Parents and others who could utilize such a service are asked to contact the G-ARC office at 996-4335 or mail the following information to Glades Area ARC, P.O. Box 96, Belle Glade, name, phone number, address, number and ages of children to be cared for, and hours of the day service would be needed.

Choirs to compete

SOUTH BAY — The Mt. Calvary First Baptist Church of South Bay, Rev. E. Coffin, pastor is planning a Battle of the Choirs, Sunday, Sept. 21 at 3 p.m. at the church.

The number three choir of the church invites area community choirs to participate in this program. Prizes will be awarded to the winning choirs.

For additional information regarding this event contact Mrs. Geraldine Dunning.

Everglades class reunion

BELLE GLADE — The Everglades Vocational High School Alumni will meet Sunday, Sept. 14 at 4 p.m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Linda M. (Earlene Jordan) Weston, 3029 Ave. 2, Riviera Beach.

Mrs. Weston, co-chairperson of the Everglades High School homecoming said alumni that cannot attend the meeting are asked to please mail their addresses and other classmates addresses to Willie Pyfrom, 1308 S. W. Ave. B, Place, Belle Glade 33430, or to her at 3029 Ave. 2, Riviera Beach, 33404.

Mrs. Weston said plans are being made to celebrate Everglades Vocational High School Homecoming July 1-7, 1981.

Omicon Iota holds luncheon

A buffet luncheon hosted by the president, Lynette Thompson, opened the fall season for members of Omicon Iota Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

All Hands On Deck

Feeding the crew? While Polly may want a cracker, you can rest assured that the mates will be looking for something a little heavier. That's the time to call Dandy Double Deck Sandwiches in from the galley. Miracle Whip salad dressing, "The Bread Spread", adds a gust of flavor to three decks of rye bread filled with Kraft natural Swiss cheese, corned beef, shredded cabbage, and slices of tomato. With pretzels or chips served portside, you don't have to worry that you'll be walking the plank when Dandy Double Deck Sandwiches are on board.

Dandy Double Deck Sandwiches

2 cups shredded cabbage	8 tomato slices
Miracle Whip salad	Kraft natural Swiss dressing
12 rye bread slices	1/2 lb. corned beef, thinly sliced

Combine cabbage and 1/4 cup salad dressing; toss lightly. For each sandwich, spread 3 slices of bread with salad dressing. Cover first slice with coleslaw, 2 tomato slices and second slice of bread. Top with slices of cheese, corned beef and third slice of bread.

BPW to bring candidates to Pahoee

PAHOEE -- Glades area voters will have an opportunity to hear November election candidates, look them over, and ask them questions Oct. 25.

A "Meet the Candidate Night" is being sponsored by the local Business & Professional Women at the Prince Theatre starting at 8 p.m.

Invitations are going out this month to national, state and county nominees, according to Wyonia Cummings, chairman of the program, who says some 30 candidates, including presidential hopefuls, are being asked to attend.

"We don't really expect the presidential candidates to come," Miss Cummings admitted, "but we do expect them to send representatives."

The committee will not accept stand-ins for state and county candidates, however, she said. Candidates have been given a deadline of Oct. 11 to reply.

Those candidates appearing will be given a time period in which to speak and roving microphones will enable voters to ask questions. There will not be an admission charge. Meanwhile, posters are being placed in area stores announcing the candidates night program and letters and phone calls will go out to individuals and organizations urging their attendance.

The political program is being held in conjunction with National BPW Week and is a suggested project for the clubs. In staging the candidates night program, the Pahoee group will be competing for a BPW award. Kathi Ligon, Pahoee BPW president, will serve as master of ceremonies for the program. Isabel Palacio is in charge of publicity.

Lewis gives update on highways

BELLE GLADE -- State Representative Tom Lewis, now seeking the District 27 state senate seat held by Phil Lewis, told Belle Glade Rotarians Tuesday there's no anticipated problem in completing SR80 as far as US89 near 20 Mile Bend but the next section, as far as the eastern foot of the 20 Mile Bend bridge, could be a big hurdle.

Lewis' remarks about SR80 were almost a side issue of a talk he gave to the Rotarians on general road projects, in which he said there is a good possibility the state's interstate system could be completed by 1987, with the I-95 gap being closed in 1985 or 1986.

Lewis said his projections are based on a meeting he attended in Washington DC with federal Department of Transportation officials, the entire Florida Congressional delegation and state DOT officials. He said federal funds could be made available in the near future because of two agreements that came out of the meeting, including a three year delay built into applications for one funding pool and an estimated $500 million worth of construction funds that are expected to become available from other states next year because design work on interstate highways in those states hasn't been completed.

Lewis said there is a possibility as much as $100 million of that money could be phoned to Florida and used to help close the gaps in I-95 between Fort Pierce and North Palm Beach, an I-75 bypass around Tampa and other I-75 gaps, including a long stretch over Alligator Alley between Naples and Fort Lauderdale.
